

Valery Voyles
Chairman & CEO, Voyles Automotive Group

Valery Voyles spent years learning the automotive business from her father Ed Voyles before assuming a leadership position in the family business. Growing up, she would visit him at his office after school most days and throughout the summers. These early experiences helped Voyles develop a passion for the automotive industry at an early age.

She graduated from The Westminster Schools in 1974 and worked as a professional model until the arrival of her first child in 1981, opting to devote her time to raising her children. Once her children started school in the early 1990s, Voyles began working full time for the Ed Voyles Automotive Group, one of the oldest and largest automotive groups in the metro Atlanta area.

The group, which consists of six stores housing eight total franchises.

Valery's company has been named Franchise Business of the Year Award, was nominated for Time Magazine's

Franchise 500 Award, and was ranked in Entrepreneur magazine's Franchise 500 for 10 years.

Valery also supports several important causes. She sits on the boards of the Shepherd Center and the Cumberland Academy, partners with the United Way each year, and provides valuable sponsorship to Cobb County.
